Metro at a standstill

Pagasa says worst not over; it may clear up Thursday

By DJ Yap, Julie M. Aurelio and Marlon Reyes

NONSTOP monsoon rains left 80 percent of Metro Manila flooded on Tuesday, forcing hundreds of thousands out of their homes and sparking recollections of the calamitous Tropical Storm "Ondoy" in 2009.

Pagasa Administrator Marcelino Servando said "the worst is not over for Metro Manila," as the weather bureau expects the rains to continue well until Wednesday.

"It may start to subside on Thursday," he said.

All cities in Metro Manila declared yesterday that there would be no classes in all levels today. Classes are also suspended in the provinces of Bulacan, Pangasinan, Laguna and Cavite.

PLEAS for rescue from rising floodwaters flow thick and fast yesterday, but President Aquino did not see the "horror of helplessness" that he said was pervasive during the onslaught of Tropical Storm "Ondoy" in 2009 under the watch of then President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo.

"Thinking Ondoy, the government had difficulty helping our people. Don't think we're leading it easier now. But I think the

At least 6 dead as floods swamp Luzon provinces

By Inquirer Southern Luzon and Inquirer Central Luzon

AT LEAST six people, including two sisters, were killed yesterday when floods swamped by heavy rains swamped provinces north and south of Manila.

Two provinces in the Calabarzon area—Cavite and Laguna—were placed under a state of calamity due to widespread flooding. Calabarzon also encompasses the provinces of Batangas, Pinar del Rio and Quezon.

Four people died in Laguna, including one who drowned in a creek. The two other deaths occurred in Batangas, where two sisters also drowned when they fell into a creek in Tanauan City and swept away by strong currents, police said.

Police identified the sisters as Anne May Penabaz, 9, and Anna Marie, 7.

Here is a province-by-province account of the devastation wrought by the rains and floods:

CWITE: Bacoor City was the hardest-hit area, with nine villages submerged under 2-meter-deep floods that affected 300 families, according to Governor Victor Remilla.

Rainfall volume surpasses 'Ondoy'

By Lela B. Solerria

THE VOLUME of rainfall that swamped Metro Manila and nearby provinces yesterday surpassed that of Tropical Storm "Ondoy," initial reports from the government's Project Noah (National Operational Assessment of Hazards) showed.

But though the monsoon rains exceeded Ondoy's rainfall in 2009, the latter still managed to peak more rainfall because most of its rainfall came in a shorter period of six hours, said Makar

Big dams open gates, add to Luzon flooding

By Lela B. Solerria and Riza T. Ochoaides

MAJOR DAMS in Luzon kept their gates open to release water yesterday as heavy rains from the monsoon generated several provinces, contributing to the flooding in large areas in central and northern Luzon.

Ipo, Antablan, San Roque, Beng Dam all opened their gates, according to the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA).

In Manila, which has no gates, continued to overflow. As of 2:00 p.m., its water level was

THE BATTLE FOR MARKET SHARE

CONFERENCE 2012
August 16-17, 2012 at Pines, 199 Leland Rd., Newark City, Essex County, NJ

Here's back, we have seen the stress. While competition in the industry was in a way in equilibrium, this dynamic balance is now changing and changing rapidly. The big boys in the block have launched a massive expansion program while the rest of the industry have gone on the defensive as market fragment, shifting their focus to market share protection and cost management. What will emerge from all this? What will be the future structure of the industry? Who will remain and who will go? What will be the best to succeed?

CONFERENCE TOPICS

Call and text more with Smart's TriNet Unli 40

Tired of keeping phone conversations short so you could save or load? With Smart's TriNet Unli 40, you can now make unlimited calls and texts to any Smart, Talk 'N Text, or Sun Cellular subscriber for just P40 a day.

You can even check your Facebook account to see your friends' latest posts, make comments, add friends, and post status updates, as TriNet Unli 40 also gives you unlimited Facebook access for one day.

"Smart helps you make your P40 go a long way. With this service, you can already connect with more than 50 million Smart and Talk 'N Text subscribers and 15 million Sun subscribers. You can chat with loved ones and make important business calls without worrying that your load would be eaten up," said Smart mobile marketing head Melissa Linares.

If you're a Smart prepaid subscriber, you may avoid payment of the TriNet Unli 40 service by loading TRINET40 to 2949.

To make unlimited calls, you must dial "2949" followed by the 11-digit Smart, TNL, or Sun number of the person you wish to talk to. (For example: "2949091234567"). Calls are allowed any time of the day.

For unlimited Facebook access, you must text P40 to 271. The SMS is free of charge.

Once you've done this, you will receive an SMS containing the download link of a Facebook mobile application that runs on Java-capable phones and some smartphones.

"What makes TriNet Unli 40 better than other talk services is Smart's superior network. You can call, text, and surf Facebook without fretting about unreliable network coverage," Linares said.

"Now that Smart has completed the upgrade of its mobile network, you can rest assured that your calls will be connected, your text messages will arrive on time, and you can surf Facebook at reasonable speeds," she added.

Smart has completed the installation and optimization of new base station equipment, increasing the network's capacity to handle voice, text messaging, and mobile broadband services.

Smart's base stations all over the country are now easily upgradeable to fourth-generation technologies like HSPA+ and LTE, which will enable Smart to offer high-speed mobile broadband in more parts of the country.

PRESS STATEMENT

Our client, Amira C Foods, DMCC, is the owner of a shipment of Indian rice allegedly smuggled into the Philippines through the Subic Bay Freeport. To reiterate, our client is a company duly established and existing for more than fifty (50) years, with international presence as a seller of rice products in at least forty (40) countries. Being a supplier of the World Food Program under the auspices of the United Nations, our client has a reputation to uphold. To be a party to the illegal activity, as maliciously attributed to our client, would be the height of impropriety.

Our client, however, asks no more than the fair application of the laws, "a government of laws, not of men."

For the government to discharge with this non-negotiable obligation, however, it must first be apprised of the truth behind this controversy. The six-point-factual-paradigm is thus provided for the facile reference of all concerned.

1 Fiction - A grand design to illegally slip 430,000 bags of rice, which were shipped to "customer firm [which] were assigned to Metroeastern Trading Corp." Customs Commissioner Ruffy Basco reportedly said that the firms were seized after the consignee, Metro Easters Trading Corp., failed to produce proper documents for importation. "There was clearly a grand design to illegally slip the 430,000 bags of imported white rice into the country as, not only was the importation undocumented, but its consignee tried to make the shipment appear as a transshipment load to Jakarta," Basco said in a statement. News articles further report: "Customs Commissioner Ruffy Basco said the container vans carrying the rice arrived at the port last April 4. The container vans were assigned to Metroeastern Trading Corp."

Fact - The Indian rice arrived in a vessel, the MV Vinashini Mighty, originally bound from India to Indonesia. The rice was unloaded under the auspices of Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority ("SBMA") and Bureau of Customs ("BOC") personnel. As a 1-Way B/L was filed with and was approved by the BOC operator of the goods in Subic on 4 April 2012. Documents would show that the BOC boarded the vessel on the same day. Post inspection, BOC provided a general permit for MV Vinashini Mighty to discharge the imported cargo. More importantly, the Commissioner himself personally visited Subic Freeport while the cargo was being unloaded. Neither the BOC nor the SBMA raised any objection days before they could file the "shredded" original goods.

2 Fiction - Abandonment. The Commissioner of Customs was reported to have said that nobody came forward to claim the Indian rice within the thirty-day period for filing an entry. There was allegedly an increasing pressure to release the goods while the BOC and the SBMA raised no objection days before they could file the "shredded" original goods.

Fact - No abandonment. The goods were, and continue to be, stored in two (2) warehouses in the Subic Special Economic Zone ("SEZ"), in full compliance with SBMA regulations. Our client has, and still continues to pay, all assessed costs for warehousing, fumigation, cargo/safety, security and costs for retaining a globally recognized independent or recipient and inspection company for warehousing of the goods in the Subic SEZ warehouse.

Even assuming the applicability of the thirty-day period to this case, our client was not given the thirty-day period for filing the supposed entry. In fact, the BOC did not wait for the thirty-day period to lapse before it instituted seizure and detention proceedings against our client. On 15 May 2012, less than five (5) days from the discharge of the goods on 20 April 2012, the BOC already sought a warrant of seizure and detention. This lack of due process notwithstanding, on 21 May 2012, our client merely posted the arrival of the goods and filed the necessary shipping documents, i.e., Commercial Invoice, Packing List, B/L, Phytosanitary Certificate, Certificate of Origin, Fumigation Certificate and Inspection Certificate of Quality, Weight and Packing of Cargo with both the SBMA and BOC.

The fact of the matter, however, is that our client never intended to import the goods into the Philippines. Since, the thirty-day period for filing with the BOC does not apply in the first place. Our client relied on good faith on information given to it by its broker; for transshipment purposes, the only requirements were to file shipping documents with the SBMA within thirty days, and to be correct on the payment of warehouse charges. Any additional filing with SBMA and the BOC would only be required at the time of actual transshipment. This client complied with all these requirements.

3 Fiction - Pressures being applied to counter BOC's act of instituting seizure proceedings. "It has been an effort just to resist all these pressures over the last two to three months, but we are determined to finalize the seizure of this big haul next week. We will not let this slip from our hands," Basco allegedly said in a phone interview."

Fact - The Commissioner himself, under oath during the Senate Hearing on 1 August 2012, stated that he had been impugned. As opposed to a statement made before the media, a sworn statement made before an august body such as the Senate is, and must be, afforded greater weight. Surprisingly, despite the issuance of an undated Decision of Indictment on 15 June 2012, the Commissioner walked until 21 July 2012 to gather security in a crowded courtroom of the Senate for a press conference of the same issue in SBMA.

4 Fiction - The Philippines as the alleged port of final destination. News reports allege that the rice was intended for the Philippines because the B/L of lading covering the goods shows Subic as the port of discharge.

Fact - The goods were originally intended for Indonesia. As repeatedly emphasized by our client, the subject rice was originally intended for Indonesia, and was only supposedly transshipped to the Philippines for transshipment to final buyer. In fact, the 50kg sacks bear the original markings of the Indonesian importer showing its intended recipient.

A copy of the original bill of lading and shipping documents, as well as communications between our client and the Indonesian importer, are attached to the Appeal before the BOC. When the shipment was reported in Indonesia due to late arrival, and the decision to temporarily store the goods in Subic was made, the ship owner changed the port of discharge to Subic upon our client's request. The original bill of lading issued for Indonesia was then transferred to the shipper owner. Consequently, the bill of lading and other shipping documents now reflected the new port of discharge as Subic. Our client relied on their understanding of the foregoing customary shipping regulations. Copies of both sets of documents have been provided to the BOC in our client's appeal.

5 Fiction - The rice is allegedly intended to be sold in the Philippines. Reports state that the rice was found in about 430,000 50-kilogram bags, which "was that the rice was loaded to send across to the Philippines."

Fact - The rice was never intended to be sold in the Philippines. While the goods are temporarily warehoused at the SEZ, local importers claiming to have NFA import licenses have actively offered to purchase the goods. While these documents have been furnished to BOC, our client did not pursue this avenue, as in fact, the Philippines was, and still is not, a target final destination for the goods.

In the conduct of the ordinary course of its business, our client continued to explore potential international buyers for the goods. As of about the end of June 2012, our client was able to finalize negotiations with an international buyer in the United Arab Emirates. The full execution of this transaction, however, is being delayed by the actions of BOC, which has caused great financial and reputational damage to our client, as innocent party.

6 Fiction - Fear of immediate perishability of the rice. News reports allege that the rice is perishable in the near future, and of bad quality, and is at risk of rotting and mold.

Fact - The rice subject of this controversy is of good quality, is robust and tough, and is fit for human consumption until February 2014. Our client is in possession of certificates provided to it by independent third parties that the subject rice has a shelf life of two years before its quality deteriorates. Moreover, our client has, and is maintaining and ensuring, reasonable storage conditions in the warehouse, with cleaning and monthly fumigation. There is consequently no risk of rice rotting in the near future. In addition, our client maintains more than adequate insurance coverage for losses that may result from any unforeseen circumstances.

60.55 meters, above its normal water level of 58.15 m.

Iga Dam had two gates open yesterday with its water level at 2,000 p.m. reaching 138.57, 0.17 m above its normal height.

San Roque Dam also had two opened gates, adding its much more water to water level until yesterday afternoon was 282.96 m, 2.76 m above its normal level.

Pagasa warning

Pagasa warned that the Philippine municipalities of San Marcel, San Nicolas, Teyate, Sta. Maria, Angeles, Villavic, Alcala, Bataan, Iba, and Iba. It said that the municipalities of Bataan, San Nicolas, Angeles, San Nicolas, Iba, and Iba. It said that the municipalities of Bataan, San Nicolas, Angeles, San Nicolas, Iba, and Iba.

With two gates open, the water level at Ambulao Dam was 771.28 m yesterday, just 0.13 m above its level.

Bigas Dam had three open gates as of 2:00 p.m. even though its water level was 172.77 m, but not reached its normal high water level of 175 m.

By 6:00 p.m. yesterday, Magat Dam also opened two gates as its water level was 131.1 m, 1.4 m above its normal height of 129 m.

Pagasa said the Ibaña municipality of Bataan, San Nicolas, Angeles, San Nicolas, Iba, and Iba. It said that the municipalities of Bataan, San Nicolas, Angeles, San Nicolas, Iba, and Iba.

Expected to increase today

Pagasa said the reservoir water elevation of Ambulao, Bigas, and San Roque Dams were expected to increase until at least today, when modules in heavy seas were expected to fall over their crest.

The water level of La Mesa in Quezon City threatened all flood-prone areas in the city.

By 6 p.m. yesterday, the water level was down to 80.44 m as it continued lower than its level at 4 p.m., according to Manila Water Co. Inc.

The level was 80.51 m at 3 p.m. and 80.46 m at around 12 noon.

The water steadily rose from Monday night to around 8 a.m. yesterday and then eased up as several rainstorms and started going up again, and Manila Water communications manager said.

Spill dam

The same was observed on Monday as the volume of rain rose from heavy to light and heavy again.

Water at La Mesa reached around 80 m on Monday after falling to its minimum level of 80.15 m in the morning.

Monday.

La Mesa's water level reached 80.15 m at 2 a.m. to 7 a.m. on Monday after more than two weeks of heavy rain. The water level dropped steadily during the day and reached 80.15 m at 3 p.m. but started rising up again after 6 p.m.

Being a spill dam, La Mesa does not have to open its gates to raise water levels. Instead, its excess water starts flowing out through a spillway after the 80.15 m mark.

Down to Manila Bay

During the rainy season, it is also raised at 79.50 m, according to Manila Water. Water from La Mesa goes into the La Mesa Dam, which flows through the northern part of Quezon City including the Baguio area, as well as the cities of Malabon, Marikina and Calabarzon. The river drains into Manila Bay.

SAN ROQUE DAM Two spillway gates of San Roque Dam release water in Agno River as floodwaters in heavy rain send the water level more than 2 meters above its spill level of 284 meters.

SYRIA'S prime minister joined the rebels and accused President Bashar Assad of carrying out "genocide" against his own people, prompting Washington to say the regime was "crumbling."

The defection came as government forces were poised to launch an assault on rebels in Aleppo, the commercial capital, and as a recruiting group said it had 127 people were killed in a suicide attack in the city.

Rebel leader, a leading figure in Assad's minority Alawite-dominated regime, because the highest-ranking official in the Assad's regime in the country 17 months after he took power in 2011.

He accused his former master of carrying out "genocide" against his own people but said their deaths of Assad and his family were calls for change.

The latest defection showed Assad was losing his grip on power and that his people believe his days are numbered, a US official in Washington said.

Washington said Assad's regime was "the least likely to be the last" in the region, and that the regime was "the least likely to be the last" in the region.

US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton said that to the extent that Assad is the least likely to be the last in the region, the regime was "the least likely to be the last" in the region.

French President Francois Hollande's office said France would immediately deploy military aid to help Assad's regime, but the aid would be subject to a UN Security Council resolution.

Davao's Kadayawan goes live with LTE

The Kadayawan Festival in Davao City got its name from kadayawan, a local greeting which means valuable, superior, beautiful, good, or profitable.

This year, mobile exhibitors, Smart Communications, and its partners, including Davao City, got the go-ahead to use the city's first-ever LTE network.

"We are bringing Kadayawan to the world," said Smart Davao's Internet and Data Services Head Loid Mandana. "We have set up several booths around the city where visitors can enjoy the Kadayawan experience in a fun and interactive way."

Known around the world as the most superior mobile communications technology in existence, LTE is a perfect fit for the fast-paced Kadayawan Festival. With speeds of up to 42Mbps, users and visitors alike could upload their photos and videos online in seconds.

"We have kiosk and booth, laptops and tablets, USB drives and Wi-Fi hotspots. Whatever you need, there's a connection option waiting for you," said Mandana. "The mobile network allows us to display the best services which Filipinos could rely on whenever and wherever they are needed."

Mandana refers to the P57.3 billion mobile network upgrade which, together with partner company PLDT, has completed last month.

technologies, and the introduction of portable equipment such as the Mobile Element On Wheels (MEOW). Davao will play a pivotal role in leading Mindanao into the future of connectivity.

Earlier this month, Davao also welcomed its first-ever LTE network as the city launched its first mobile application park in time for the Kadayawan Festival.

Simply called "Davao Life" (http://davaolife.com), the app provides information on Davao City from attractions, to restaurants, to places of interest around the city. The Smart-sponsored app is available for free download on the Google Play online store (http://play.google.com) and is compatible with all Android-powered devices.

"We already completed our mobile infrastructure upgrade of our base stations here in Davao as the timing is just right," said Rolando O. Peña, head of PLDT-Smart network in IP network. "This app is a good example of how mobile technologies can be maximized by local government for their projects," he added.

Last PH medal hope opens bid

By Ted S. Mendoza, Sports Editor

LONDON—The last Filipino medal hope from the 2012 London Olympics along with a medal entry to athletes in the country stands set its participation at the 2012 London Olympics here.

On Tuesday, Filipino diver and swimmer in the world's biggest sporting event as he competes in the women's 100m butterfly at the Aquatics Center in London. The 20-year-old diver, who is assigned to his first in a team event that has never been his specialty, says he is the favorite to win the 100m butterfly at the Aquatics Center in London.

After a long day of waiting, he is still in the thick of the fight for one of the 11 medals in the women's 100m butterfly at the Aquatics Center in London. Manila whips Grand Rapids

Nears Big League softball final

THE TEAM that has thrived in adversity seemed close to getting its reward while putting a dent on a former Champion's bid.

Facing 21 worth, from Manila took a big step in outscoring the 2012 Big League World Series softball team after defeating defending champion Grand Rapids, 12-2, Monday at Fenway Park in Salem, Mass.

The Filipino athletes appeared the momentum of the past few years with 17 hits that enabled them to secure their sixth straight victory after opening their bid with back-to-back defeats.

It was never coverage for Team Manila, which took three hits earlier against Grand Rapids in the last four games.

"I think this is the first game they've played like this," because I've noticed with the firing of our players, and, of course, against one of the top teams," Manila coach Jose Santiago was quoted as saying by Madison.com website writers.

If the Filipino leads to a final, possibly it will be their last preliminary round game, they will set up a championship clash with the United States, California, which dealt them one of their last losses.

Grand Rapids could win their pool play with a 6-2 record just like Manila if the Filipino team is to last, given that the Filipino team has the best record in the pool.

Steve Remondino, an athletic coach of the Filipino team, said the Filipino team has been in the top two in the last two years, but Grand Rapids is just too hot, while Steve Jay Smith and Danny Williams would not take with them into the final.

The team needs to lead to enter the tournament in Manila, Los Angeles, and Manila coaches Rafael "Coco" Remondino and Rafael "Coco" Remondino would be ready for the final.

In fact, Manila did not have the full team, as it was only 13 players in its squad because of lack of time.

The writers said it was able to continue to Manila because it was able to defeat the United States in the final game, but the team is not yet in the final.

Bolt warns teammate: I'll beat you at 200

100METER—Get ready for more of The Bolt show.

Usain Bolt dropped by Olympic Stadium for a brief visit Sunday night and said things for him, as usual, jumping to the top step of the medal podium to collect his second consecutive gold for the 100 meters.

When the American sprinter returned to the track on Tuesday, it will be for the first round of the 200 meters, an event he's planning to win, too, as part of his quest to become what he calls "the legend."

It is it, Bolt said. And he said he was the only man to have been back-to-back gold in the 100.

His next race was the 200 Olympic 200m. After his victory Sunday in the 100-meter final, Bolt's second—the second fastest time in history—Bolt was asked whether he'd be the best sprinter ever. He easily replied he was not only a sprinter but an athlete who needs to distribute speed, then back it up, when it runs him.

"I want to say that I think I have to beat Bolt the 200 meters, and then my first goal is to win 'Yes, he is,' and the second goal is to win 'Yes, he is.' I'm never going to say I'm the greatest or at all after my 200 meters."

That was before he ran the one he needs to hold the world record of 19.58, as at the 2009 world championships. The 200 final was Sunday's Wednesday, and the final is Thursday night.

"Once again, Bolt will likely have a tough challenge from his American teammate and reigning partner, Victor Butler, who took the silver in the 200 on Saturday. Butler beat Bolt in both options of their second Olympic race."

"The 100-meter Bolt had 200 meters will be different. Because that's my argument, I'm not going to let him beat me again. I'm not that fast already," Bolt said. "No wonder Bolt, 'Bolt'."

The 200 sprinting race has been the most exciting event in the 2012 Olympics. The 200-meter final is the 11th-most exciting, according to the 2012 Olympic Games. Heavy rains shut down local financial markets

By Doreen C. Delos Angeles

AN UNPRECEDENTED weather that flooded most of Metro Manila and most of Luzon on Monday of the month of October in 2009 halted Philippine financial markets and banking operations nationwide.

The Philippine Stock Exchange announced before 8 a.m. yesterday the suspension of stock trading. This was followed by its advisory from the Bankers Association of the Philippines and the Bangko

Stocks, currency trading, banking operations suspended

Central ng Pilipinas that there would be no trading in the open foreign exchange floor of the Philippine Trading System and the fixed income branch Philippine Bond and Exchange Corp.

"We are suspending trading across the Philippine-Philippines Payments and Settlement System of the BSP (Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas) in anticipation," PNB president River said. PNBPA is the system owner which both processing and settlement of fixed transfer instruments can take simultaneously in real time. The settlement process is based on real-time transfer of central bank assets.

While the suspension of such a Philippine Clearing House Corp., the PNB said it was likewise unable to operate its business.

Quoting Cooperation of the Philippines (SCOP), the clearing and settlement agency for all trades executed in the exchange.

Each is the morning, the Philippine Business Association of the Philippines had also announced office suspension among levels of the safety of bank personnel and customers following the hazardous weather. But the BSP said it would ultimately be up to each bank's decision.

In an interview yesterday morning, BSP president Atty. Villamor, who is also president of Security Bank, said the association had recommended in a bulletin that member banks "consider suspending such as SCOP (National Capital Region) and other areas."

By the BSP, we realized that we have an obligation to serve the public so we can't tell anybody unilaterally to shut down but also we can't control the behavior of banks, and personnel, to tell them it to the discretion of member banks," Villamor said. The bank suspension would only be in the PNB and fixed income branch, Villamor said.

"We'd rather be safe than sorry," he said. And 8:30 a.m., Villamor said the following banks had made no early decision to suspend in response to the

PLDT, Globe Telecom post lower Q2 profits

By Raul G. Marcelo

TELECOMMUNICATIONS industry profits continued to fall in the second quarter as the country's top companies accelerated consolidation efforts while struggling against competitive forces from landline and from Internet communications applications like Skype and Facebook.

In a main report released earlier this week, domestic carrier Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT) reported a net income of P95.5 million, down 10 percent year-over-year.

"These results reflect the consolidation of the operating performance of United Telecommunications Philippines Inc. from its acquisition, which closed last October," PLDT said.

Stripping out one-time gains, PLDT's core profits fell 11 percent to P14.7 billion. PLDT said higher service revenues were offset by an increase in expenses due to its expansion program at PLDT's subsidiaries.

The company also spent more on selling and promotional activities, the statement added. "Our net income was also affected by the recognition of a P4.6 million dividend gain relating to the transfer of shares of Manila Electric Co. (Mercon) from PLDT Communications Inc. and Energy Infrastructure Assets Fund Holdings."

Recent losses in the Manila 50 PSE 100 group's holding company for its controlling stake in Mercon, the country's biggest power distributor.

"It is noteworthy that, despite the earnings pressure from the competitive state of the local industry and continuing pressure on our margins, our core cash flows remain strong, thus enabling us to realize our customer dividend goals," said Panguilan, PLDT's chief.

PLDT's earnings before income tax, depreciation, and amortization (EBITDA) margin for the January-to-June period remained at a healthy 40 percent, although this was lower than the 50 percent level recorded a year earlier.

Consolidated free cash flow rose to P24.4 billion, an increase of 1 percent over last year. PLDT, which controls similar carriers, Internet Communications and true Global, ended the period with P1.4 million in cash or two-thirds of the industry.

This helped pay up consolidated service revenues by 12 percent year-over-year to P14.7 billion.

Meanwhile, Globe Telecom reported a similar one-time drop, with Q2 net income ending at P5 billion, for the six-month period. This was down 10 percent from the same time last year.

Despite the lower profits, the company continued to invest, noting "the technology dividend" offering the challenges posed by competition, new technology, pending government level dividend to pay by such ADM tags and subscribers' participation for services offering the best value for their money.

Banks warned of rising credit growth-related stress

By Michelle N. Bano

Fitch says controls needed to dial down accelerating pace

FITCH Ratings said the exposure of the Philippine banking sector to risk of failure due to excessive credit growth may be a concern for investors as the stress of a rising credit growth-related stress on banking assets in that Asia-Pacific region.

In a recent report on Asia-Pacific credit risk, the ratings agency said that the risk is very much alive in the face of developed countries in the West. While credit growth is slowing down in advanced economies, it has been accelerating in Asia Pacific by a pace far enough to cause concern.

Given excessive liquidity, credit growth is also on the rise. As a result, the banks' deposit ratio for the Philippine banking sector remains at a relatively comfortable level of 50 percent, according to Fitch.

Think beyond that, credit growth is leading to rising credit growth-related stress on banking assets in that Asia-Pacific region. The Philippines, and other emerging markets, are experiencing rapid credit growth in the region because they are kept under prudent limits.

Since last year, Philippine banks have been posting double-digit growth in outstanding loans. The total loan portfolio of national and commercial banks in the country is P1.88 trillion as of the end of May up by 14.7 percent from P2.15 trillion a year ago. The rate of growth had been 12.5 percent in the previous year.

High flyers go bust

IT FINANCIAL company that recently went under, but its private bank, is the catalyst to keep the whole thing from blowing.

According to one source, the financial company-based in Manila and recently the head of its former policy officer, who was a former operations chief at a private bank, who had paid back checks issued to parents to help their children in their studies.

the year ended, they have been selling the bank's stock to all of its clients.

That the bigger may be the risk is why they did it.

It was not because the bank had lost its license. It was because they could not secure a enough license of Commission that they had to shut down while waiting the goods. The owners said that instead of keeping their funds.

Sps. Marcelina and Salvador Cabaero Jr.

Sps. Marcelina and Salvador Cabaero Jr., a couple who started out with just a simple passion and a small investment, have since then developed into an awe-inspiring team of their labor. Having moved to Isabela for work, it was during this time that Mr. Cabaero, Jr. met college friend Marcelina Lim. The couple decided that their small venture they started in 1996. They put up a P2,000 seed capital and established their small herd base. Soon enough, the Cabaeros were able to expand their herd and their business into a small grocery in 1999. P20,000 was poured into their small trading venture and followed it with the construction of their first building for agri supply needs in 1997.

Despite the challenges that they encountered in the past, through the grace of God and the problems of mismanagement of opportunity for change and progress. Today, the Cabaeros' business is now located in a three-story commercial complex of buildings that also serves the business as a large agri building, this is the dream and their visionaries for their future. The latest warehouse finished construction and became operational in 2013. Located in at Victoria, which is in Isabela, the area 2,700 square meters project includes a parking station and grain dryer.

The Cabaeros couple never lost sight of the people whom they were helping with their business. The set of values that has guided Mr. and Mrs. Cabaero to their business is the same reason they stand to those seeking their advice. Their choice when they say their business, demonstrates, solid relationships, continuous growth, and a belief in a higher power are the keys to their success in life.

Five useful features in the new Honda CR-V

By Harold H. Aron

THE 2012 Honda CR-V reinforces the model's position as the most spacious, most comfortable, and most refined in its class. After a week of driving the car, we were still finding closer reaches throughout the cabin, giving evidence that the CR-V is the most comfortable and convenient car in any category. Here are five fun facts not found in the owner's manual.

1 Spectral ergonomic cockpit: There's plenty of room to stretch in the CNV's universal cabin, both at the front and rear seating rows. The driver gets a specially designed cockpit, with all controls easy to view and operate. The multi-function LCD is centered high on the dashboard, allowing easy viewing of the trip computer to make sense.

2 Backup camera: The LCD display doubles as a monitor for the backup camera. Backing up into a parking space is made much easier, even with passengers in the back and a full load of cargo.

3 Now, before Volkswagen drivers say despite this, that it's worth waiting for the bad economy, essentially the opposite of a "spare" future, the firm made strategic economic response, modifies the transmission, springs, and even adjusts the oversteering all to drive bad economy. Even with the firm made engine, the CR-V's VTEC engine provided large torque for climbing and oversteering.

4 Conversation mirror: When conversing with the kids in the back seat, the driver has to turn his head or swivel the rear-view mirror—both options are not very safe. Enter the CRUX's conversation mirror, allowing the driver to see everyone inside the car without reaching the main rear-view mirror. One gripe with the conversation mirror, the viewing angle appears skewed, as if designed for a slightly taller driver.

5 As an SUV, it's expected that the CR-V provides gills-loading room seats to facilitate cargo removal. The CR-V does that too, but by lowering the headliner to fold the seats within the loading space, rather than your head is in there. Then the seats fold flat into the floor, in a mechanical manner worthy of Olympic Pommel. The result is huge loading room with a total volume of 360.7 cubic feet of space.

Honda launches 1'M Blue Campaign

WOWA (www.philips.gov.ph) and its subsidiaries will participate in the recently launched the TM Film Campaign, a new addition to the comprehensive and safety advisory system.

The 100 Blue Crayfish in Blue Bluffs is the catchphrase for one million annually drivers under the banner of Great River Mississippi Program.

The message during corporate awareness month, global environmental topics, "Blue Bluffs for Our Children," adopted by corporate and government in the region, is that this river is fundamental to the region's economic and environmental health. It is imperative a joint effort with government is to help preserve our environment for the next generation.

With the growing concern over pollution and global climate change, Honda, as a company pursuing a global outlook business, is striving to be the world's leader in environmental and energy technologies through its product development, production, and sales activities.

Having embraced the goal of becoming a company that society wants to start by sharing joy with the people of the world based on the Ikeda philosophy, Meiji is pursuing a range of corporate activities in order to create new value, expand value, and fulfill his commitment to the future while contributing to the freedom of movement to seek out a better way, a willingness to rise to the challenges of the future, and a spirit of collaboration.

By responsibly pursuing these standards in its activities, B&W is taking social responsibility and con-community effectively with all heads of households including customers, doctors, suppliers, insurance, churches, neighbors, and local government, it is HeadStart's tradition to help bring about a sustainable society.

Utilizing CBE in the Philippines, HeadStart has launched and implemented in the Philippines the HeadStart Training and Grant Project (HSTGP) in 1996, and the HeadStart Training and Grant Project (HSTGP) in 2000 through the partnership of HeadStart Foundation Inc., Philippine Partners for the Environment, Inc., Global Access Initiative for Asian Goals, and the Department of Energy. The said program has engaged more than 400 artisans, technicians and their personnel from various government agencies by providing them with classroom and hands-on training on best efficiency and sustainable practices.

The program utilizes the Clean Air Management Toolkit developed by United Nations Environment Program. Designed to measure and evaluate the impact of vehicle fleets on the environment and health, and shows options on how practical measures strategies can be implemented. Roadside driving lessons are integral part of the education as the program builds on "driving habits" as one of the major factors to conserve fuel and avoid greenhouse gas emissions, while maintaining

Live the Prime Life

EVERYBODY has yearning for that dream community where things are luxurious, peaceful and fun-filled. It is in this pursuit that Megaworld has been steadily improving from the concepts of its mature planned townships, making each resident its "own, ready and play" the way they want it to be. Consequently, the township developments at Eastern Gateway, Serenity City and McGlorey still have on the list high for the end Master-planned, remodeling everyone their urban living need to be "prime and proper".

EASTWOOD-CITY: The City Within A City

Nearly twenty years ago, this was just another district of Quezon City. However, when Eastern City had its plan launch in 1997, the promise of another world-class commercial hub grew into a reality. Carefully defined as the center of prime (shopping and sight-see) hotspot, the idea of creating in this township is becoming more what is pure than by. The neighboring communities of One Central Park, Eastwood Parkview and Eastwood Park Hotel & Residential Suites offer refuge from the stress of the surrounding metropolis. The choice of relaxation are endless. One Central Park has its lush views and greenery. Eastwood Parkview sits high on the slopes of its surrounding hills, as it is directly connected to the park. Eastwood Hotel and the Eastwood Hotel & Residential Suites offer top-class services that spell luxury at its finest.

MAGNETIC HILL: Living In Urban Bliss

If you're longing for an urban lifestyle, this is The Treasury Private Estate and 111 Upper McGlorey in the world-class McGlorey 180 community are perfect for you. In fact, the influence is remarkable—the regal architecture, stone details and wrought-iron grillwork are all present here, reminding contemporary Manila-worship architecture. With these exquisite designs, developments, living in bliss is not that difficult. Just literally around The Treasury Plaza, a local residence of the real. People's new, taking into account every detail especially its intricate patterns and flowing patterns. At McGlorey 180, get close to some of the world-top companies such as PFI, Citicorp, Accenture, Business Resource and Pella-Pella educational institutions such as Enderun, Chinese International School Manila and Enderun International School, and foreign embassies of the United Kingdom, South Korea, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates.

New San Jose Builders Inc. trailblazes with new concepts for homebuyers

Sports complexes, SOHOs, canal offices, luxury offices, etc. These are just some of the interesting new high-rise living concepts New San Jose Builders Inc. (NSJB) presents for today's working class and even discriminating home buyers and investors.

Break your pace with family-friendly condos

Breaking those ridiculous prices is easy with a hand of family-friendly developments of New San Jose Builders Inc. (NSJB).

The growing families, the young need of living is a primary concern. We understand that it can be taxing, looking for dwellings at the heart of Metro Manila that strikes the balance between comfort and affordability," shares Gina De Los Reyes-Villanilla, NSJB's head of Strategic Marketing and PR. "The affordability of the units at Victoria de Tomas Morato combined with its location near schools, government offices, churches and shopping complex, make Victoria de Tomas Morato an ideal choice."

"Our focus is to really provide quality homes for the modern Filipino family that's always on the go and who appreciate quality, convenience and a healthy community," says Villanilla. "One of our features is having a commercial area in all of our properties. This includes coffee shops, a convenience store and leisure facilities."

"The 45-story Victoria de Tomas Morato is strategically located at the corner of Tomas Morato and Fiscal Divisadero, preferably neighbors to CBD-CDB, and at the center of the metropolitan district and geotransport advantages," adds Villanilla.

Apart from flats and 2-bed condominium concept that are close to public transport, business districts, major government subdivisions, schools and universities, NSJB also introduces the Small Office Home Office (SOHO) living concept.

Ideal for freelancers, entrepreneurs, consultants and other professionals, SOHOs are workplaces by day and abodes by night. Located at Victoria de Manila 1 in Tull Avenue, Manila, SOHO will ensure get their own lobby and elevators, separate from Victoria de Manila's residential elevators.

Its modern features a close-knit bed for added space that business owners can use during downtime, plus other amenities for comfortable dwelling with dual functions that for effective business dealings and entrepreneurship.

These innovations are NSJB's response to the needs of modern Filipino family for a healthy and balanced lifestyle.

Full vertical integration

"With a track record of consistently creating quality and pioneering projects to make every Filipino's home ownership dream come true, we are proud to have to be the country's 99 percent Filipino owned real estate developer. Full vertical integration and having our own construction company means everything is conceptualized, designed, built, sold and serviced by one company making our cost-effective homes more accessible and to tighter guaranteed standard," explains Villanilla.

Villanilla states that the convenient locations and value-added features of NSJB's developments are all in keeping with the company's vision. A promise in the affordable housing market, NSJB is committed to further its philosophy of giving Filipinos the best value for their money. "When NSJB started building homes decades ago, it had a dream of providing Filipinos with affordable quality homes," Villanilla explains. "Every NSJB project gives residents great location, security and more."

Ally Xeres-Burgos prepares soup for dinner

The CEO cooks—and how

For Lando head Ally Xeres-Burgos, 'Life at your leisure' translates into a cozy wine-pairing dinner with wife Manicar and friends.

By Jay Rujar

DESPITE THE presence of a handful of women, a printed menu and an elegant table setting of white roses, candles and herbaceous dishes on the way out deck, the recent wine-pairing dinner of Lando Pacific Corp. CEO Ally Xeres-Burgos and his wife Manicar was hardly a stiff and formal affair.

Moving for the first time, their guests—mostly friends and Manicar's twin and Joy and Mia Chan, and ally's fellow wine-loving cousin Albert Villalobos—discovered they had many friends and interests in common. It was a relaxed atmosphere filled with coffee conversation, food and wine.

"We're so doing tonight, okay?" Manicar reminded the group.

Joint effort

Dinner was in effect between husband and wife. Manicar prepared the appetizers—Spanish Artichoke Dip and Cheese Potato, and Mediterranean Potatoes. Ally prepared the main course—Beef Tagalog with Garlic Rice and Little Gingers with Cheese Shrimp Sauce and Shrimp Cocktail Sauce, and the main course—Slow-cooked Beef with Lotus Mashed Beef and Potato Sauce.

Order wine from his "fancy" collection of 100-plus bottles accompanied each dish. Most of the food was served on the table.

While wine-pairing events like an on-tasting understanding, Ally admits it isn't, even going as far as to call it "fancy." "Though I've been known to use and write about about the wine," he said, "I've reached a point where I'd rather enjoy a nice glass of wine

Over a self-described "best and worst" kind of guy, Alby is on the best of the two in the time he has shared; the couple is celebrating its 10th anniversary.

Today, the hotel of the young hotelier has got himself into the kitchen in the main lobby, one of which is in the main lobby.

Cooking as therapy

Learning to cook from scratch, meanwhile, started their journey as a result of his appointment as CEO of the high-end and exotic and luxury development company. Looking for a way to keep his mind off work, he found watching TV cooking and trying his hand at it, all in one.

"The cooking," he said, "really requires focus and concentration. It's very therapeutic."

The passion for food was inevitable. So when the first day he went to eat, Alby has been enjoying restaurants for Philippine Hotels since 2006.

"Not cooking alone are the only things we watch on TV," he said with a laugh. "When MasterChef comes on, the whole house is watching it."

Observing how they make cooking look easy, he figured he would do the same. "I

CLOSET Management

The mere sight of a messy closet is paralyzing. You can't move on from searching the things you need at the moment and you literally can't move around the room. You're stuck. It's not an exaggeration if you feel as if your closet is slowly closing in to you after all, clutter and disorganized wardrobes eat up a lot of space. What used to be your bed or dinner table is now a mound of things you refuse to put away.

But just as getting no closet idea is to avoid items, organizing starts small too: earrings, neckties and other accessories, makeup, miscellaneous socks, and shoes. You just need the right tools and practice. Put away the things that you notice to be misplaced such as jewelry, your under or your home clothes. This way, organizing becomes a habit. If not a reflex, to you.

first things first

We all probably know the one-year rule by now. If you haven't used that policy since then or that rather in the past year, you probably won't in the next three. Use it. Clearly it's not to bring clutter back.

birds of the same feather

Sort out all of your clothes and group them together by kind and color. This way, you can properly assess how many of which you have and how much space you need. Then hang at your.

Can you hang? Can you sort out your things in three or four piles?

space savers

Most girls don't have racks in their closets. Expand your closet by using clever solutions like a 3-in-1 hanger instead of using up 10 pole slots, you can hang more.

hung up

Now that you have sorted out all of your clothes, you might want to sort out your hangers as well. If the hanger where it is, up to hangers, is the same color to make it pleasing to the eyes. Notice that a rainbow of plastic ones is an eye sore even if you've grouped your clothes together.

lingerie loop

Your delicate delicates also the perfect ones. Hang them in their shape by hanging them in special containers. Don't just clamp them on top of each other. This way, you can easily assess where you made mistakes and so your special 100% ones.

bag lady

For some ladies, bags are their soul. It's not unusual for girls to own several bags that end up looking messy on top of each other. If one doesn't have proper storage space, make your purchases looking better, store properly.

jewelry jumble

Accessories are also the biggest culprit of clutter. The quickest way to look better and save time are in boxes with built-in compartments. You can also group them by kind or material. What's important is you can easily access them and see several pieces at once.

label it

Take time to label everything that is stored in boxes, baskets, etc. Even if you can't spot them easily, you will still know where things are and won't be looking for all the boxes before you finally find that pair of socks you use especially for working out.

It's really possible and pretty easy to keep your room and organized clutter-free, especially with Howard's Storage World. Why Tes Pasola is passionate about paper

The possibilities of this overlooked medium are endless, says the designer, who uses it for functional products like boxes and lights as well as for art.

By Margie C. Eniquez
Contributor

THE NAME Tes Pasola is synonymous with paper. She believes the possibility for paper has no limits. A tree-like arrangement of pulp paper can imitate a biomorphic or cloud shape. Book-bound paper can be made into a stool base. A rug and curtains can be made out of tissue and Shirogami crystals. A BMW model, a laboratory or even guideposts and houses can be fabricated from handmade paper. The possibilities are endless.

"I've made many things using book, tissue, industrial and recycled paper. That's why I love paper so much. I've been inspired by it for a long time. I've made it for and three-dimensional. It's so versatile with the material. For so long, paper has been around. Still, I want to make it new," she said.

When she was awarded an "Industrious" Pasola, she decided that creating "Black Masters" products, such as jewelry, boxes, paper and sculpture, were from there. While testing out new ways to make products, she experimented with both on paper using wet and natural dyes. One of "book papers" she tested up producing boxes and chandeliers in the '90s, the company began exporting paper products.

The Ames Board Collection is one of Pasola's signature designs; it was awarded for her handmade paper, boxes and newspaper are direct, hand-finished books and featured in a number of exhibitions. They became the basis for many, many and lighting fixtures.

She also created paper jewelry—black, beige, white and Ames board technology—flat because a powerful fashion statement.

Pasola has managed to stay grounded even while experimenting. "The product designer is able to something that comes out of the manufacturing process. It's responsibility to the consumer is to create things that meet what the user's needs without losing his natural world, while making his world bring through what he sees. The manufacturer's task is to make sure that everything is not lost. Product designers can meet up making more products if there's no choice."

Concept over design

She adds, "In my concept it's very important from design. The concept is a box, product design comes naturally. Concepts may also be derived from the need to change a manufacturer's product line."

One of Pasola's most challenging works was the design of an ornate chandelier lamp for a local company. With a diameter of 2.5 meters and a height of 1.5 meters, the lamp, made of stretched paper and pulp, seemed too big to implement a regular chandelier. "It's a challenge to create a lamp that is also the people on the side. Right now rules dictate that the lamp should be proportionate, but then we go back and find rules. The bottom line is that it's beautiful," she stresses.

"As process is product design, even with knowing what consumers used at the present time. Now the responsibility is to create things in the 'present' very possible without compromising ourselves. There is an element of compromise that would make the skills of our nation. The experience gives us, and I become

CLARE TELLEMAN supported AGE-CRM Foundation's Eight-Step plan to Pango offers to volunteers the living floor and its ongoing commitment to a one-month sponsorship of Core Programs at the Paco Market's Activity Center, the so-called "heart" of the market.

After four years since the P1 million donation to help support Paco Market's core business activities through the age, Karamo's company also brought in employee volunteers to assist Paco Market staff members on basic book-keeping, accounting and record-keeping.

The mentorship activity is part of Kimmie Karamo's "Give program" which offers volunteer opportunities and activities to help employees in support development efforts in the country through skill-based volunteerism, disaster relief operations, and various community care and social initiatives.

"Volunteering and corporate social responsibility are already embedded in the Globe culture from staff to executive level," said Rolo L. Nolasco, Globe head for CSR. "We continue to encourage employees to volunteer during relief operations, fundraising for community projects, community mentoring, among other activities. In our arrangement, we work with AGE-CRM Foundation in a project like this."

Globe Lintas, managing director of AGE-CRM, is spearheading the under task of clearing the Pango floor under the Kimmie Karamo Pango 50 Big Project.

The newly completed historic Lintas general market was designed and developed by Kimmie Karamo & Associates.

The market regains the major goals: historic preservation and group design, commercial sustainability and social sustainability, development of an activity center for education and cultural preservation, providing an authentic Filipino product, and developing products from within.

Globe supported programs focused on the core programs, namely market and the arts.

An event on July 28 gave birth to the Paco Market Youth Ensemble. Business Andrew Francisco and general manager Kimmie Karamo presented "Spice Market Asia," Vice President of Kimmie Karamo & Associates before the event to honor the market.

Live tribute for Dolphy on Aug. 16

DOLPHY and Ricardo Quizon

1952 began at 16, so they are. For Tim Dolphy, his legacy lives on long after the "Dolphy" (Aug. 16) show he passed on. His son, Ricardo Quizon, led the way on the plans for that special occasion.

"We will have a live Dolphy tribute event," he says. "Dolphy and Zia will be one of the money on that day so they will be paying those expenses to be there during the event. For Zia's mother, there will be a video of our bonding moments with Zia so he knows he also stays his favorite song, 'Gusto'."

It will be "an event for the Dolphy network," says Zia Quizon, who promised an effort to even be the plans on that day.
